Linguistic Harmony Day

On 21st November 2022

Objective: Quami Ektha Week to promote communal harmony across the country.

Quami Ektha Week to promote communal harmony across the country. Organized by NSS (NATIONAL SERVICE SCHEME) Cell MITS. 130 Student Volunteers and faculty members participated.

Quami Ekta Week is an important event celebrated once a year in India. All Indians celebrate it with love and harmony every year from 19 November to 25 November. These are a week-long event, during which different events related to specific topics are organized each day. This is done to awaken the spirit of equality, brotherhood, and social welfare among all Indians. Quami Ekta Week is also known as the Communal Unity Week in India, and people from every corner of the nation observe it with integrity. Quami Ekta Week celebration in the year 2022 will start from 19 November, Saturday and end on 25 November, Friday. The week-long observation has increased its importance day by day as the nation needs unity today much more than it needed yesterday. The Government of India has tried its best to maintain peace and harmony and grow communal unity and integrity among Indians, in such a situation, it would be interesting to see what new is going to happen this year's celebration.

Day wise themes for the whole week celebration of Quami Ekta Week 2022 is "National Integration Day", "Minority Welfare Day", "Linguistic Harmony Day", "Day for the Weaker Sections of Society", "Cultural Unity Day", "Women's Day" and "Conservation Day". Quami Ekta Week 2022 celebration will focus on the rashtriya ekta, welfare of the minorities, linguistic harmony, welfare of weaker sections, cultural unity, women welfare and conservation of natural resources to spread more awareness about all of them among people of the Indian society.

The Quami Ekta Week in India is being observed for a long from the history of the nation. The reason behind observing this occasion is associated with a great personality from the political society of India.

19th of November is the birth anniversary of Late Indira Gandhi. She was the 3rd Prime Minister and 1st female Prime Minister of the Republic of India. She had received the mastery in politics from her father and the first Prime Minister of India Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru.

In honour of such a great personality, who had led India on the path of development during her tenure, we observe the Quami Ekta Week starting from her birth date, the 19th of November. During the entire week, we observe each day with a different objective to maintain social peace and brotherhood and remove enmity.

Various activities are held throughout the entire Quami Ekta Week, and all of them are designed to meet the requirements of the event to be celebrated on the day.

During the celebrations of Quami Ekta Week, various programs related to specific topics are organized every day. There are some programs like meetings, seminars, cultural activities, etc. The theme of this ceremony is to highlight the issues of national unity or communal unity, secularism, non-violence, linguistic harmony, anti-communalism, cultural unity, development, and prosperity of weaker sections, women, and protection of minorities. The week's festivities begin with a pledge of national unity.

A pledge to preserve and strengthen India's independence and honesty is taken during the National Integration Ceremony. It is decided in the pledge that non-violence, peace, and faith will be continued to settle disputes of language, culture, religion, region, and political objections along with all kinds of differences
