Analytical and Quantitative Aptitude

Organized by Department of Computer Science & Technology

04 - 05 January 2019

Submitted by: Dr. Ghanashyam S. Bopche, Senior Assistant Professor, Department of Computer Science & Technology

Participants:

II Year B.Tech – Computer Science & Technology Students – MITS

The Department of Computer Science & Technology organized a seminar on ‘Analytical and Quantitative Aptitude’ to B.Tech- II Year II semester students on 4 and 5 January 2019 with a motto of enriching the students’ knowledge in problem solving and quantitative ability.

Analytical and quantitative aptitude tests are conducted by companies as part of the recruitment process to assess the candidate's decision-making abilities, time management skills, reasoning abilities, crisis management skills and so on.

By learning this, students get the benefit of being trained extensively in the following areas:

- Problem Solving
- Quantitative Ability
- Logical and Analytical Reasoning
- Data Interpretation
- Data Sufficiency
