Event Successful Report:

The event was successfully conducted as scheduled, with all entries screened to ensure compliance with anti-ragging guidelines and institutional values. The competition created an engaging environment where students became ambassadors of a ragging-free campus, complementing earlier awareness activities such as essay and elocution competitions held by MITS.

Session Content and Key Topics:

Event Highlights :

Reels Competition

The center piece of this Anti-Ragging Week is a Reels Competition on the theme of "Anti-Ragging Free Campus". This creative competition encourages students to express their views through short video content, leveraging modern social media formats to raise awareness.

Competition Details:

- Duration: 30 seconds to 60 seconds per reel
- Medium: Video reels (social media format)
- Theme: Anti-Ragging Free Campus
- Submission Deadline: 17th August (last day for submission)
- Strong student participation, with many entries focusing on zero tolerance towards ragging and positive campus values of respect and inclusiveness.

- High-quality, original reels demonstrating creativity in conveying messages on empathy, peer support, and reporting mechanisms against ragging.
- Active involvement of the organizing team from management, SAC and Anti-Ragging Cell, which ensured smooth conduct and strict adherence to the guidelines.

Event Overview:

The competition aimed to spread awareness on the legal and ethical consequences of ragging while engaging students through creative short-video storytelling. It was coordinated jointly by SAC, the Anti-Ragging Cell, faculty coordinators, and student coordinators, ensuring wide publicity through registration via QR code and active participation from multiple departments.

Outcome of the Event:

The Reels Competition significantly strengthened awareness among students about the seriousness of ragging as a punishable offense and reinforced the message that MITS is committed to safe and supportive learning environment. Students reported better understanding of their responsibility to stand against ragging, support victims and promote a culture of mutual respect, thereby contributing to a sustained ragging-free campus atmosphere.

Conclusion

The Anti-Ragging Week Reels Competition proved to be an impactful and innovative initiative that combined creativity with social responsibility, successfully communicating the importance of zero tolerance towards ragging. Overall, the event aligned with the institutional vision of maintaining a safe, inclusive, and student-friendly campus and will serve as a model for future awareness programs at MITS.

Event Successful Report:

The Film Makers Club (FMC) of Madanapalle Institute of Technology & Science, under the Student Activity Center (SAC), organized an interactive workshop titled "Creative Photography" with guest mentor Virendra Adhikari, a professional photography mentor & freelancer. The event aimed to inspire students about the art and science of photography, practical creativity, and technical skill-building in visual storytelling. The session took place in Auditorium and was attended enthusiastically by students from various departments.

Session Content and Key Topics

Event Highlights

- Introduction to creative concepts in photography and visual storytelling.
- Hands-on demonstration and interactive discussion led by Virendra Adhikari.
- Engagement on topics like framing, lighting, perspective, and editing.
- Q&A and networking session for students with the mentor.

Event Overview:

The workshop gave students a unique opportunity to interact with a professional from the photography industry. The open session enabled deep learning about creative techniques and encouraged experimentation in visual arts, strengthening FMC's role in promoting creative activities on campus.

Outcome of the Event:

1. Enhanced appreciation for photography as an art and technical discipline.
2. Development of creative thinking and observation skills.
3. Encouragement for collaborative learning and student engagement.
4. Inspiration for students to pursue personal photography interests and club activities.
5. Strengthened bonds between club members and departments through shared creative experiences.

Conclusion

The "Creative Photography" workshop was a successful and inspiring event, marked by vibrant student participation and insightful exchanges with the guest mentor, Virendra Adhikari. The Film Makers Club remains committed to organizing such creative engagements to foster talent and creative growth among MITS students in the future.
